Pillars of Islam

What are the Pillars of Islam?

Shahada (Declaration of Faith), Salah (Daily Prayers), Zakat (Charity), Fasting and Hajj Pilgrimage, are the five pillars of Islam and they provide the framework for a Muslim's life. They develop character, strengthen Islam by uniting Muslims and act as a reminder of the teachings of Islam. Allah commanded Muslims to carry out these duties Each pillar (صلى الله عليه وسلم) and follow the example of the Prophet Muhammad .has its own special importance .

1.Shahada (Testimony of Faith)

The Shahada is a testimony which brings one into Islam, it also must be said with purity of heart and conviction, the statement in Arabic translates to: 'There is no God but God and Muhammad is His Messenger., It is a profession of faith bearing witness the oneness of God and that Muhammad is a messenger of God. This also implies that all the previous prophets were only messengers. Where is the Shahada ?mentioned in the Qur'an Allah witnesses that there is no deity except Him, and [so do] the “ angels and those of knowledge – [that He is] maintaining [creation] in justice. There is no deity except Him, the Exalted in Might, the Wise.,)(Quran 3:18

2. .Salah

The five daily prayers are an obligatory practice for all Muslims who are able to do so. They consist of physical movements such as prostration to God, sending blessings upon Prophets and the recitation of Quranic verses. Praying is a way to communicate, thank and remember Allah. The daily prayers revolve around the stages of the day; dawn, noon, mid-afternoon and sunset. Muslims are required to establish ritual :prayers 5 times a day at specified times Salat al-fajr: dawn, before sunrise Salat al-zuhr: midday, after the sun passes its highest Salat al-‘asr: the late part of the afternoon Salat al-maghrib: just after sunset Salat al-‘isha: between sunset and midnight .Praying is a way to communicate, thank and remember Allah And establish prayer and give zakah and bow with those who bow [in “)worship and obedience]. (Quran 2:43

3. .Zakat

Zakat is the compulsory giving of a set proportion of one’s wealth to charity. It is regarded as a type of worship and of self-purification and fosters qualities such as sacrifice and generosity. Zakat is separate from charitable gifts given out of generosity. It is a systematic giving of 2.5% of one’s wealth each year to benefit the poor. Where is Zakaat mentioned ?in the Qur’an And establish prayer and give zakah and bow with those who bow [in “)worship and obedience]. (Quran 2:43

4. .Fasting

In the 9th month of the Islamic calendar, Muslims fast from the break of dawn until sunset. This includes abstinence from food, drink and sexual intercourse. One must also be physically and mentally able to fast. Further, travellers are exempt from fasting. Fasting promotes patience, discipline and increases the purity of the mind and piety. Where is ?fasting mentioned in the Qur’an O you who have believed, decreed upon you is fasting as it was decreed “)upon those before you that you may become righteous, (Qur’an 2:183

5. .Performing Hajj

Pilgrimage (Hajj) is an obligation upon every able-bodied and financially capable Muslim, both male and female, to complete the pilgrimage to Mecca. The pilgrimage to Mecca, Saudi Arabia, is completed in Dhul-Hijjah, the twelfth month of the Islamic calendar. The rites of Hajj requires Muslims to dress in white robes known as Ahram, circumnavigate the Ka’ba and venture between the Hills of Safa and Marwa. Where is Hajj mentioned in the Qur’an? ‘And complete the)Hajj and ‘umrah for Allah..., (Quran, 2:196 (Quran, 2:196)

Compilation of Quran and its Teachings

What is wahi (revelation)?

In Islamic terminology, wahi can be defined as God's divine message conveyed to Allah's chosen persons (Prophets.) Wahi (Arabic: وحي wahy, IPA: [waħj]) is the Arabic word for revelation. In Islamic belief, revelations are God's Word delivered by His chosen individuals – known as Messengers – to the mankind. In Islam, the Quran is considered a wahi given to Prophet Muhammad. The words of the Quran were collected as they were revealed to the Prophet Muhammad, committed to memory by the early Muslims, and recorded in writing by scribes.

Manners and forms of revelation

In the form of dreams

Revelation revealed directly into the heart

Revelation disclosed upon the sounds of a bell

Revelation brought by an Angel in the form of a Man

Revelation through an angel in his true form

Revelation directly from God

Compilation during Life Of Holy Prophet (S.A.W)

As the Quran was being revealed, the Prophet Muhammad made special arrangements to ensure that it was written down. Although the Prophet Muhammad himself could neither read nor write, he dictated the verses orally and instructed scribes to mark down the revelation on whatever materials were available: tree branches, stones, leather, and bones. The scribes would then read their writing back to the Prophet, who would check it for mistakes. With each new verse that was revealed, the Prophet Muhammad also dictated its placement within the growing body of text. When the Prophet Muhammad died, the Quran has been fully written down. It was not in book form, however. It was recorded on different parchments and materials, held in the possession of the Companions of the Prophet.

During Life Of Caliph Abu Bakr R.Z

After the death of the Prophet Muhammad, the entire Quran continued to be remembered in the hearts of the early Muslims. Hundreds of the early Companions of the Prophet had memorized the entire revelation, and Muslims daily recited large portions of the text from memory. Many of the early Muslims also had personal written copies of the Quran recorded on various materials. Ten years after the Hijrah (632 C.E.), many of these scribes and early Muslim devotees were killed in the Battle of Yamama. While the community mourned the loss of their comrades, they also began to worry about the long-term preservation of the Holy Quran. Recognizing that the words of Allah needed to be collected in one place and preserved, the Caliph Abu Bakr ordered all people who had written pages of the Quran to compile them in one place. The project was organized and supervised by one of the Prophet Muhammad's key scribes, Zayd bin Thabit. This complete text of the Quran was kept in the possession of Abu Bakr, and then passed on to the next Caliph, Umar ibn Al-Khattab. After his death, they were given to his daughter Hafsa (who was also a widow of the Prophet Muhammad.)

During Life Of Caliph Uthman R.Z As

Islam began to spread throughout the Arabian peninsula, more and more people entered the fold of Islam from as far away as Persia and Byzantine. Many of these new Muslims were not native Arabic speakers, or they spoke a slightly different Arabic pronunciation from the tribes in Makkah and Madinah. People began to dispute about which pronunciations were most correct. Caliph Uthman bin Affan took charge of ensuring that the recitation of the Quran is of a standard pronunciation. The first step was to borrow the original, compiled copy of the Quran from Hafsa. A committee of early Muslim scribes was tasked with making transcripts of the original copy, and ensuring the sequence of the chapters (surahs). so that all copies of the Quran were uniform in script.

Aarab ul Quran

Abul Aswad Al-Dawili, a student of Hazrat Ali, started the process of putting Aarabs on the Qur'an by his order which was completed in the time of Hujjaj.

Teaching of Holy Quran

- 1.Avoid lying

Place of Hadith In Islam

Dictionary meaning of Hadith Saying Statement Talk

Definition :Saying, Action and Silent approval of the action or practice by Holy Prophet (PBUH)

Types of Hadith

1.Genuine (Sahih) in which there is no weakness either in regard to the chain of transmission (isnad) or in regard to the text (matn), and in which there is no contradiction of any kind of any of the established beliefs of Islam .

2.Fair (Hasan) – this hadith is similar to Sahih hadith only some of its narrators might have to be found to have weaker or defective memory as compared to the narrator of Sahih hadith .

3. Weak (dhaif) or – this is a tradition, in respect of which some serious doubts can be raised. These doubts might be in respect to its content or the text, or because one or more of its transmitters are considered unreliable .

4. Forged (Maudu) – this is a totally forged hadith

Importance of Hadith

1 -Revelation

The Prophet's sayings and actions were primarily based on revelation from Allah and, as such, must be considered a fundamental source of guidance second only to the Qur'an. Allah in the Qur'an said concerning the Prophet: (Muhammad) does not speak from his desires; indeed, what he says is revelation. (An-Najm 53:3-4) Therefore, the hadith represents a personal source of divine guidance which Allah granted His Prophet which was similar in its nature to the Qur'an itself. The Prophet reiterated this point in one of his recorded statements, 'Indeed, I was given the Qur'an and something similar to it along with it., (Abu Dawud)

2 –Tafseer

The preservation of the Qur'an was not restricted to protecting its wording from change. Were that the case, its meanings could be manipulated according to human desires, while maintaining its wording. However, Allah also protected its essential meanings from change by entrusting the explanation of the meanings of Qur'an to the Prophet himself. Allah states the following in the Qur'an regarding its interpretation: And I revealed to you the Reminder (Qur'an) in order that you explain to the people what was revealed to them., (An-Nahl 16:44) Therefore, if one is to understand the meanings of Qur'an, he or she must consider what the Prophet said or did regarding it. E.g. in the Qur'an, Allah instructs the believers to offer salah (formal prayers) and pay zakah (obligatory charity) in Surat Al-Baqarah (2), verse 43.

3.Laws

One of the primary duties of the Prophet was to judge between people in their disputes. Since his judgments were all based on revelation, as stated earlier, they must be considered a primary source of principles by which judgments are carried out in an Islamic State. Allah also addressed this responsibility in the Qur'an saying: O believers obey Allah, obey the Messenger and those in authority among you. If you dispute about anything, refer it to Allah and the Messenger. (An-Nisaa' 4:59) Thus, hadiths are essential for the smooth running of the law courts in an Islamic State

4. Moral Ideal

Since the Prophet was guided by revelation in his personal life, his character and social interactions became prime examples of moral conduct for Muslims until the Last Day. Attention was drawn to this fact in the following Qur'anic verse: Surely there is for all of you a good example (of conduct) in the way of Allah's Messenger. (Al-Ahzab 33:21) Consequently, the daily life of the Prophet as recorded in hadith represents an ideal code of good conduct. In fact, when the Prophet's wife, 'A'ishah, was asked about his conduct, she replied, 'His character was the Qur'an., (Ahmad)

5 -Preservation of Islam

The science of narration, collection and criticism of hadith was unknown to the world prior to the era of the Prophet. In fact, it was due in part to the absence of such a reliable science that the messages of the former prophets became lost or distorted in the generations that followed them. Therefore, it may be said that it is largely due to the science of hadith that the final message of Islam has been preserved in it is original purity for all times. This is alluded to in the Qur'anic verse: Indeed, I have revealed the Reminder, I will, indeed, protect it. (Al-Hijr 15:9)

Serah (Life) of Holy Prophet PBUH

Hazrat Muhammad (PBUH) was born in highly respected family named Bani Hashim, belonging to the tribe of Quraish, in Makkah, in 571 A.D. His father, Hazrat Abdullah (R.A) had died a few months before He was born, and His mother, Bibi Aamina (R.A) also died when He was only 6. Then, he was brought up in the custody of His grandfather, Hazrat Abdul-Muttalib for two years and Bibi Haleema afterwards. When he was 12 years old, He had His first visit to Syria with His uncle, Abu Talib, where they stayed at Busra, and a monk named Buhayra after having a deep conversation with little Muhammad (PBUH), had recognized Him to be last Prohpet of Allah Almighty. Right from His early life, He used to act very differently from others in His behavior, and was admired and liked for His finest character by everyone. He was called by the names As-Sadiq (truthful) and Al-Ameen (trustful). At the age of 15, He supported a social cause for protection of rights of common people called the Pledge of Fudul. When, He disclosed as being the last Prophet of God, he was rejected by almost everyone at first, with the exception of a few like Ali (R.A) and Abu Bakr (R.A). Some of the most important events that occurred after first revelation are as follows:

The First Revelation

The coming of the Archangel Gabriel with the tidings of Prophethood and the first revelation, as we have already explained.

The Emigration to Abyssinia

When the Messenger of Allah felt the growing danger threatening the very lives of the infant Muslim community and its helplessness against the infidels, he instructed some of them to migrate to Abyssinia. The immigrants were led by the Prophet's cousin Ja'far bin Abu Talib, and upon arrival there, were allowed to settle and practice their faith by the Abyssinian ruler Negus.

Siege and Social Boycott

Alarmed at the growing number of Muslims and fearing to do bodily harm to the Prophet, because of Abu Talib's towering personality, the Makkan Jahiliyah devised a plan of social boycott of the whole Bani Hashim clan. Hence a total boycott was imposed on the Bani Hashim and the new Muslims to such an extent that all links or contacts whether commercial or social, including buying or selling of goods and even matrimonial alliances were severed. But the Hazrat Abu Talib was determined to protect his nephew the Prophet, and together with all his clan members as well as the other Muslims retired to the valley known as Shi'b Abi Talib on the outskirts of Makkah, where together, they could easily override the difficulties and also protect themselves from any incursions. Steadfastly, the Muslims bore the consequences of the siege, enduring pain, hunger and other difficulties for three long years, and ultimately frustrated the infidel's efforts, which forced the Makkan Jahiliyah to lift up the social boycott.

The Year of Great Grief

Shortly after the Bani Hashim and other Muslims emerged from Shi'b Abi Talib, a double calamity struck the Prophet. Umm al-Mu'mineen (mother of believers) Khadija al-Kubra who had given her husband unflinching support, sacrificing her great wealth and property for the cause of Islam, finally succumbed to the hardships and breathed her last. It was a great blow to the Prophet to lose his faithful beloved companion and the mother of his illustrious progeny. But another calamity was in store for Muhammad (S), and three days later that another great benefactor and sincere guardian, his uncle Abu Talib passed away from this mortal world.

The Retirement to Ta'if

Aggrieved by the double loss of his loving wife and doting uncle, and faced with the prospect of renewed hostility from the Makkan idolaters, who were emboldened by Abu Talib's death, the Prophet set out for the oasis town of Ta'if. But in Ta'if the call to Islam fell on deaf ears. No one believed in Muhammad's (S) invitation except an old Christian farmer called 'Adhasu' who embraced Islam. The Arabs of Ta'if ridiculed the Prophet, encouraging simpletons and ignorant children to pelt him with stones and obstruct his path, wherever he moved. The Messenger convinced that his divine mission would not make much progress with the stonehearted people of Ta'if, returned back to his birthplace Makkah.

Madni life

The Building of the First Mosque The entry into Madina was followed by the building of the mosque, the first-ever for the Muslims who had just emerged from years of oppression in Makkah. It was one of the most important landmarks for Muslims who now had a centre of their own for open uninhibited gatherings, a school for learning the Qur'an and a headquarters for receiving necessary instructions from their leader.

Fraternization

The second important step taken by the Prophet in Madina was the fraternizing of 'Muhajireen' (Makkan Immigrants) with the 'Ansar' (Madinite Helpers) in the bonds of Islamic brotherhood. He fraternised each Muhajir with an Ansar, joining them together as brothers in faith.

The Islamic State

The other important event after the Hijra was the establishment of the Islamic State and Government by the Prophet, who by applying the gradual unfolding of divine commandments, moulded the hitherto ignorant Arabs into a real Islamic society.

Jihad

The next stage was Jihad or holy struggle, a thing not known in Makkah. It was the natural consequence to the setting up of a state. Unbelievers, ever-intent to stamp out the divine call but seeing Islam finely knit unto a secure state, resorted to arms, and the Muslims had to follow suit to defend their faith, and according to Allah's injunctions went out to do battle with the aggressors.

Monarchs, Heads of State and Tribal Chiefs Invited to Islam

Allah bestowed victory upon His Prophet in his many battles, and the Muslims were now strong. Since the light of Islam had expelled ignorance from the greater part of the Arabian Peninsula, the Messenger of Allah now felt it his duty to enlighten neighbouring people about the truth of Islam. Accordingly he sent envoys to the Emperors of Persia, Byzantine and Abyssinia (Ethiopia) and to other heads of state and tribes inviting them towards guidance and reform.

Qualities of Holy Prophet PBUH

All For The Sake Of Allah

Prophet (PBUH) as selfless as a person could be in life. All his undertakings and motives were just to fulfill the order of Allah and He did not undertake any action out of His personal desire and will. He lived every day of His life for the sake of Allah and everything which He did was for the Almighty. The extent of His selflessness can be seen from the example of His preaching in the valley of Taif, where people lead naughty children to throw stones at Him while He was preaching. He had to run for His life and He was all covered in blood. But still He did not complain to Allah.

Mannerism

Prophet (PBUH) was the epitome of good manners. Every action that He undertook in life represented the highest morals and manners that a person could exhibit. He was an Ideal being in terms of manners and ethics, the likes of which the world has not seen.

Humor

People think that being a religious leader of Islam, Prophet (PBUH) had nothing to do with humor, rather He was all strictness and stringency. This perception is wrong, as Prophet (PBUH) was the one with the finest sense of humor, the likes of which again cannot be seen in anyone.

Peace Lover

The general notion regarding Islam and Prophet (PBUH) is that they both encouraged violence in people and were and are not in favor of peace. It is totally baseless, because the religion Islam itself is peace and Prophet (PBUH) was a lover of peace. He wanted people to live in harmony and always encouraged people resolve their differences by opting for peace, instead of going for violence. In one of His hadith Prophet (PBUH) said: “Let us go to resolve the situation and make peace between them., (Bukhari)

Kind to the Kids

Prophet (PBUH) always treated kids with kindness and mercy. He always enjoyed their company and played with them to make them happy. One such example can be seen from His life when He used to say to kids: “I’ll give such and such (i.e. gift or so) to the one who comes to me first”.

Generosity

Generosity is another hallmark of the personality of Muhammad (PBUH). He was the most generous person there could ever be. He preferred others over Himself and always fulfilled the needs of anyone who came to Him to ask for something. One of His companions notes: “The Prophet (PBUH) did not refuse to give anything which He had to someone if he asked for it., (Bukhari)

Caring Of Women

Another allegation against Islam is that it is a religion that oppresses women, therefore, being the bringer of the religion, Muhammad (PBUH) is also attributed with women oppressing attributes. This perception is also wrong, because Prophet (PBUH) was very caring of the rights of the women and commended His followers to give special treatment to women by giving them respect and equal rights that they ought to have. In one of His hadiths He said: “Whoever (brings up) two girls till they come of age, will be in the next world along with me, like my two fingers joining each other., (Abu Dawud) When the daughter Holy Prophet PBUH Hazrat Fatima R.z came, you would stand up. In this way you honored the daughters in this society.

Pleasantness

Another misconception is that Prophet (PBUH) would be someone who would always be harsh and strict on the people He interacted with. It is also a wrong perception because Prophet (PBUH) was the most pleasant person. He would greet everyone with a smile and always spoke to people with gentleness. His companion said about Him: “I have never seen a man who smiled as much as the Messenger of Allah., (Tirmidhi)

Concerned About Orphans

Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) did not just love who were around Him, nor did He only loved those who were related to Him, rather He considered the entire society. In society, He was especially considerate of orphans and would commend His followers to take special care of the orphans as they did not have parents to look after them. In one of His hadiths, He said: “The best house among the Muslims is one where an orphan is well treated, and the worst house among the Muslims is one where an orphan is badly treated., (Ibn Majah)

Economic System of Islam

Islam is unlike other major world religions such as Christianity, Buddhism or Hinduism in that it is concerned not only with the spiritual but also with the practical.

Capitalism: an economic and political system in which a country's trade and industry are controlled by private owners for profit, rather than by the state.

Socialism: a political and economic theory of social organization which advocates that the means of production, distribution, and exchange should be owned or regulated by the community as a whole.

Islam: Islamic economic doctrine essentially differs from capitalist and socialist regimes with this respect. It allows private ownership for a number of kinds of property and means of production. Similarly, it allows public ownership and state ownership for some kinds of wealth and property.

The Islamic economic system is the collection of rules, values and standards (in light of Quran and Sunnah)of conduct that organize economic life and establish relations of production in an Islamic society.

Sources of Income Permissible In Islam

Every source of income in which benefits are enjoyed by all the concerning parties on the just basis.

Do not devour another's property wrongfully – unless it be by trade based on mutual consent. (Al-Nisa: 29)

Sources of Income Prohibited In Islam

- a) Bribery al risha (Al-Baqarah: 188.)
- b) Usurping others' property (Al-Baqarah: 188.)
- c) Fraud (Al-Imran: 161.)
- d) Stealing and Robbery (Al-Maida: 38.)
- e) Income from sources of vulgarity (Al-Noor: 19.)
- f) Gambling (Al-Maida: 90.)
- g) Wine and its business (Al-Maida: 90.)
- h) Interest (Al-Baqarah: 275.)

Abu Said narrated that the Prophet said: "The truthful and trustworthy businessman will be in the company of Prophets, saints and martyrs on the Day of Judgment."

[Darimi, Tirmidhi.]

Islam and interest

An Islamic economy is free of interest. Islam prohibits all transactions involving interest. Interest is neither a trade nor a profit. It is a means of exploitation and concentration of wealth. The Qur'an says:

"They say, trade is like interest and Allah has allowed trade and prohibited interest." (2:275.)

"Whatever you pay as interest, so that it may increase in the property of (other) men, it does not increase with Allah." (30:39.)

Sources of income in Islamic state

1. Zakat

-2 Al-Ushr: Ushr means one-tenth. It is a tax on agricultural produce.

-3Al-Khums: Khums on the produce of the mines or mineral wealth was charged by the Islamic State at the rate of 20%.

-4Al-Jizyah: It is a tax imposed by an Islamic State on its non-Muslim subjects in lieu of protection given to their lives and properties.

-5Al-Fai: which are obtained from an enemy who has laid down arms before actual fighting has taken place.

-6Al- Kharaj: Karaj means revenue, tax, rent, rate, lease, produce, income, wages, etc. received from land which the Muslim jurists call Kharaj land. According to Imam Abu Obaid, Kharaj is rent or produce received from land. It is, in fact, an agricultural tax received from non-Muslim owners of the lands.

Taxes by state: Hadrat Umar r.z introduced import duties which were charged on the articles of trade and merchandise imported into Islamic State .

Abu Musa Ashari, the Governor of Iraq apprised the caliph about the fact that the Roman and Persian Governments of the neighboring countries were levying import tax on the Muslim traders who visited their countries to sell their articles of trade. So the Islamic State also levied a tax of 10% on the goods brought into Muslim territories by Harbi traders as a reciprocal measure. Later on, the tax was also extended to the Zimmi and Muslim traders at the rate of 5% and 2.5% respectively. These import duties on mercantile goods are called ‘ushur ’ by the Muslim jurists. In the modern world these taxes are called import duties or custom duties or tolls.

Lessons from Surah Hujurat

The 49th surah of the Qur'an is Surah al-Hujurat. It is a Madinan surah. The surah defines a lot of the traits and habits of the ideal Muslim. The main theme of the surah revolves around a series of life-giving commandments of akhlaq (ethics and morality) along with social dealings (if put into practice), would lead to a harmonious and ideal society. All the instructions and commandments in the surah, if cultivated properly would nurture a pure society which would be the antithesis of blameworthy moral habits and qualities. Through the surah's way of explaining things, Surah al-Hujurat includes a series of comprehensive commandments which are meant to purify the soul and spirit of all humanity.

"فَتَبَيَّنُوا: 1Fa Tabayyanu"

Investigate: whenever you receive information, ensure it is accurate lest you harm people out of ignorance.

"فَاَصْلِحُوا: 2Fa Aslihu"

Reconciliation: reconcile between one's fellow Muslim as believers are brothers/sisters to one another.

"وَأَقْسِطُوا: 3Wa Aqsitu"

Act justly: whenever there is a dispute and one is attempting reconciliation, act justly among both parties as Allah loves those who are just.

"لَا يَنْخَرُ: 4La Yaskhar"

Don't ridicule people, perhaps they may be better than you in the eyes of Allah.

5. "Wa La Talmizu" : ولا تلمزوا.

Don't insult one another.

Leader ship Qualities of Holy Prophet PBUH

Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) was “the only man [we can say leader] in history who was supremely successful on both the secular and religious level”, says Michael Hart in his book The 100: A Ranking of the Most Influential Persons in History. It was Allah Almighty who appointed Prophet (PBUH) as the leader of the Muslims of Madina and also for the rest of the Muslim Ummah:

“And We made them into leaders to guide people in accordance with Our command, and We inspired them to good works, and to establish Prayers and to give Zakah. They worshipped Us alone” (Quran 21:73.)

And His choice, as we know, can never be anything less than extraordinary.

There are many characteristics that make Muhammad (PBUH) a successful leader and many lessons lay in the Prophet’s (PBUH) leadership that is still relevant for Muslims today. Let us elucidate what makes the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) an excellent leader and what we can learn from him. A good leader should:

Be Merciful

In the Holy Quran, Allah Almighty says about Prophet (PBUH):

“And We have not sent you, [O Muhammad], except as a mercy to the worlds”
(21:107.)

And indeed the Prophet (PBUH) was the epitome of peace and mercy. Whenever he was wronged by anyone, he would forgive them and would refrain from holding grudges. It is narrated by Anas that once a Jewish woman tried to poison the Prophet (PBUH) and upon knowing her deed, he let her go without so much as a punishment (Muslim). This shows that the Prophet (PBUH) was not only merciful and mindful of the Muslims but was also kind to non-Muslims.

Care for the Poor

The Holy Prophet (PBUH) proved himself to be the most kind and charitable leader there was. He preached his Ummah to take care of the poor and needy, to not wrong an orphan and to keep for you (as a leader) only what is necessary for subsistence. The Prophet (PBUH) did not appropriate any wealth while he lived and he instructed his companions to distribute among the poor whatever was left after his death:

"Not even a single Dinar of my property should be distributed (after my death to my inheritors, but whatever I leave excluding the provision for my wives and my servants, should be spent in charity." [Bukhari, "Laws of Inheritance" 33.]

This hadith is proof that even in his death he was mindful of and worried about the poor and wanted to help them as much as he could.

Be Just

Allah Almighty clearly states in Surah Al-Ma'un that those who deny rights are to be looked down upon:

Have you seen the one who denies the Recompense? For that is the one who drives away the orphan. And does not encourage the feeding of the poor. So woe to those who pray. [But] who are heedless of their prayer - Those who make show [of their deeds]. And withhold [simple] assistance (Quran 107:1-7.)

As a leader, one should not only do anything in their power to make the lives of his people easier but should also offer assistance whenever approached. In addition, a leader should be just in such a way so as to not discriminate against anyone based on gender, race or class status.

Be Trustworthy

The Holy Prophet was known as Sadiq and Ameen and everyone knew that he could be trusted fully. Even those who did not believe in the message of Islam sometimes gave him their assets for safekeeping. For someone, who had so many enemies (based on the opposition of Islam), to be trusted in such a manner is a testament to the kind of person and leader he was.

It is important for the people to trust in their leader and hence it is a quality that must be present in anyone who aims to be a good leader.

Understands the need of time

A good leader is also one who acts according to the situation and circumstances of those he rules over. The Prophet (PBUH) made sure that he did not burden his companions more than was necessary. The Muslims were weak in Makkah and so neither Allah nor the Prophet asked them for Jihad. But once the Muslims had migrated to Madina, the Prophet (PBUH) knew that their hold had become stronger which is why the Prophet (PBUH), by the permission of Allah guided them towards Jihad for the one true religion.

However, a good leader does not create unnecessary warfare and tries to lessen the damage as much as possible – he did not only care for people on his side but even for the enemy. A good leader is hence compassionate and empathetic as well.

Involve the people in decision-making process

The Prophet (PBUH) took his people and their recommendations seriously. The Battle of Trench is one example of how the Prophet (PBUH) took the suggestions of his companions seriously. It was Salman Farsi's decision to dig a trench as a strategy against the enemy and although the Prophet (PBUH) could have disagreed, he decided to trust Salman (RA) and the decision proved fruitful. In the Quran the Lord says:

“So by mercy from Allah, [O Muhammad], you were lenient with them. And if you had been rude [in speech] and harsh in heart, they would have disbanded from about you. So pardon them and ask forgiveness for them and consult them in the matter. And when you have decided, then rely upon Allah. Indeed, Allah loves those who rely [upon Him]” (3:159).

The Prophet (PBUH) was a successful leader because he was patient, kind, just and truthful. These traits not only allowed him to lead better, but they also made him a good humanitarian, which is the most a good leader can hope to be. There is no bigger humanitarian than Muhammad (PBUH) and in him we will always find an example of a great leader.

Definition of Kasb-e-Halal: It is defined as all provisions and earnings that are Riba free, legal and lawful under the legitimating and having religious acceptance.

THREE PRINCIPLES OF KASB-E-HALAL:

- Moral Values, Business and Religion:

Moral values, business and religion are deeply linked with each other. The Holy Quran indicates that business and economics are “Fazrullah” and it means bounty, favour and blessings.

- Positive Struggle for Lawful Earnings:

Islam prepares his followers to do hard work and struggle for lawful earnings. It dislikes struggles less, effortless, unemployment and begging.

- Difference between Lawful and Unlawful:

Islam stresses about legal earnings and forbids illegal earnings. Every profit and earning that will be earned/received through unlawful and illegal sources will be put in Hell (fire). The entire process of earnings should be fair and transparent.

THREE IMPORTANT INSTRUCTIONS OF THE HOLY QURAN ABOUT LAW EARNINGS:

These are as under:

Islamic Ethics

Islamic ethics are those universal standards of right and wrong that prescribe what humans ought to do as taught by the Quran, and demonstrated in the exemplary life (actions and words) of the Prophet Muhammad. In this sense, ethics "subsumes all actions that are characterized as virtuous deeds in the terminology of the Quran"

Moral commandments

Worship only God: Do not make with Allah another god; lest you will sit disgraced and forsaken. (Quran 17:22)

Be kind, honourable and humble to one's parents: And your Lord has decreed that you not worship except Him alone, and to be good to the parents. Whether one or both of them reach old age [while] with you, say not to them [so much as], a word of disrespect, and do not repel them but speak to them a noble word. (Quran 17:23) And lower to them the wing of humility out of mercy and say, "My Lord, have mercy upon them as they brought me up [when I was] small." (Quran 17:24)

Be neither miserly nor wasteful in one's expenditure: And give the relative his right, and [also] the poor and the traveler, and do not spend wastefully. (Quran 17:26) Indeed, the spendthrifts are brothers of the devil, and the devil is, to his lord, ungrateful. (Quran 17:27) And if you [must] turn away from the needy awaiting mercy from your Lord which you expect, then speak to them a gentle word. (Quran 17:28) And do not make your hand [as] chained to your neck or extend it to its utmost reach, so that you [thereby] become blamed and insolvent. (Quran 17:29)

Do not engage in 'mercy killings' for fear of starvation: And do not kill your children for fear of poverty. We provide for them and for you. Indeed, their killing is ever a great sin. (Quran 17:31)

Do not commit adultery: And do not approach unlawful sexual intercourse. Indeed, it is an immorality and an evil way. (Quran 17:32)

Do not kill unjustly: And do not kill the soul which Allah has forbidden, except by right. And whoever is killed unjustly - We have given his heir authority, but let him not exceed limits in [the matter of] taking life. Indeed, he has been supported [by the law]. (Quran 17:33)

Care for orphaned children: And do not approach the property of an orphan, except in the way that is best, until he reaches maturity...(Quran 17:34)

Keep one's promises: ...fulfill (every) engagement [i.e. promise/covenant], for (every) engagement will be questioned (on the Day of Reckoning). (Quran 17:34)

Be honest and fair in one's interactions: And give full measure when you measure, and weigh with an even balance. That is the best [way] and best in result. (Quran 17:35)

Do not be arrogant in one's claims or beliefs: And do not pursue that of which you have no knowledge. Indeed, the hearing, the sight and the heart - all those will be questioned. (Quran 17:36) And do not walk upon the earth exultantly. Indeed, you will never tear the earth [apart], and you will never reach the mountains in height. (Quran 17:37)

Islam and Human Rights

The Islamic Approach:

when we speak of human rights in Islam we really mean that these rights have been granted by God; they have not been granted by any king or by any legislative assembly. The rights granted by the kings or the legislative assemblies, can also be withdrawn in the same manner in which they are conferred.

CHAPTER TWO BASIC HUMAN RIGHTS

The first thing that we find in Islam in this connection is that it lays down some rights for man as a human being. In other words it means that every man whether he belongs to this country or that, whether he is a believer or unbeliever, whether he lives in some forest or is found in some desert, whatever be the case, he has some basic human rights simply because he is a human being, which should be recognized by every Muslim. In fact it will be his duty to fulfil these obligations.

The Right to Life

The first and the foremost basic right is the right to live and respect human life.

The Holy Quran lays down:

Whosoever kills a human being without (any reason like) man slaughter, or corruption on earth, it is as though he had killed all mankind ... (5:32)

The Right to the Safety of Life

Immediately after the verse of the Holy Quran which has been mentioned in connection with the right to life, God has said: "And whoever saves a life it is as though he had saved the lives of all mankind" (5:32).

Respect for the Chastity of Women

The third important thing that we find in the Charter of Human Rights granted by Islam is that a woman's chastity has to be respected and protected under all circumstances, whether she belongs to our own nation or to the nation of an enemy,

The Right to a Basic Standard of Life

Speaking about the economic rights the Holy Quran enjoins upon its followers:

And in their wealth there is acknowledged right for the needy and destitute. (51:19)
The words of this injunction show that it is a categorical and un-qualified order.

Individual's Right to Freedom

Islam has clearly and categorically forbidden the primitive practice of capturing a free man, to make him a slave or to sell him into slavery. On this point the clear and unequivocal words of the Prophet (S) are as follows: "There are three categories of people against whom I shall myself be a plaintiff on the Day of Judgement. Of these three, one is he who enslaves a free man, then sells him and eats this money" (al-Bukhari and Ibn Majjah).

The Right to Justice

This is a very important and valuable right which Islam has given to man as a human being. The Holy Quran has laid down: "Do not let your hatred of a people incite you to aggression" (5:2). "And do not let ill-will towards any folk incite you so that you swerve from dealing justly. Be just; that is nearest to heedfulness" (5:8).

Equality of Human Beings

Islam not only recognizes absolute equality between men irrespective of any distinction of colour, race or nationality, but makes it an important and significant principle, a reality. The Almighty God has laid down in the Holy Quran: "O mankind, we have created you from a male and female

This has been exemplified by the Prophet in one of his sayings thus: "No Arab has any superiority over a non-Arab, nor does a non-Arab have any superiority over an Arab. Nor does a white man have any superiority over a black man or the black man any superiority over the white man. You are all the children of Adam, and Adam was created from clay" (al-Bayhaqi and al-Bazzaz).

The Security of Life and Property

In the address which the Prophet delivered on the occasion of the Farewell Hajj, he said: "Your lives and properties are forbidden to one another till you meet your Lord on the Day of Resurrection." God Almighty has laid down in the Holy Quran: "Anyone who kills a believer deliberately will receive as his reward (a sentence) to live in Hell for ever. God will be angry with him and curse him, and prepare dreadful torment for him" (4:93).

The Sanctity and Security of Private Life

Islam recognizes the right of every citizen of its state that there should be no undue interference or encroachment on the privacy of his life. The Holy Quran has laid down the injunction: "Do not spy on one another" (49:12). "Do not enter any houses except your own homes unless you are sure of their occupants' consent" (24:27).

Freedom of Expression

Islam gives the right of freedom of thought and expression to all citizens of the Islamic

Freedom of Association

Islam has also given people the right to freedom of association and formation of parties or organizations Holy Quran declares:

You are the best community which has been brought forth for mankind. You command what is proper and forbid what is improper and you believe in God ...

(3:110)
